Q1) What can you infer from this extract about Professor McGonagall's character?

'How did you know it was me?' she asked.

'My dear Professor, I've never seen a cat sit so stiffly.'

'You'd be stiff if you'd been sitting on a brick wall all day,' said Professor McGonagall.

'All day? When you could have been celebrating? I must have passed a dozen feasts and parties on my way here.'

Professor McGonagall sniffed angrily.

'Oh yes, everyone's celebrating, all right,' she said impatiently. 'You'd think they'd be a bit more careful, but no - even the Muggles have noticed something's going on. It was on their news.'

I can infer that Professor McGonagall is _____

The phrase _____ suggests _____ because _____.

Q2) What does this extract suggest about Hagrid's character?

'Gallopin' Gorgons, that reminds me,' said Hagrid, clapping a hand to his forehead with enough force to knock over a cart horse, and yet, from his another pocket inside his overcoat he pulled an owl - a real, live, rather ruffled-looking owl, a long quill and a roll of parchment. With his tongue between his teeth he scribbled a note which Harry could read upside-down:

Dear Mr Dumbledore,

Given Harry his letter.

Taking him to buy his things tomorrow.

Weather's horrible. Hope you're well.

Hagrid.

Q3) What does this show about Neville's character? Can you infer anything about their relationship?

'What are you doing?' said a voice from the corner of the room. Neville appeared from behind the armchair, clutching Trevor the toad, who looked as though he'd been making another bid for freedom.

'Nothing, Neville, nothing,' said Harry, hurriedly putting the cloak behind his back.

Neville stared at their guilty faces.

'You're going out again,' he said.

'No, no, no,' said Hermione. 'No we're not. Why don't you go to bed Neville?'

'You can't go out,' said Neville, 'you'll be caught again. Gryffindor will be in even more trouble.'

'You don't understand,' said Harry, 'this is important'

But Neville was clearly stealing himself to do something desperate.

'I won't let you do it,' he said, hurrying to stand in front of the portrait hole. 'I'll-I'll fight you!'

'Neville,' Ron exploded, 'get away from that hole and don't be an idiot-'

'Don't call me an idiot!' said Neville. 'I don't think you should be breaking anymore rules! And you were the one who told me to stand up to people!'
